
Felisha McNeal

Felisha McNeal is excited to be working with Perception Theatre again. "I'm so proud of you young people. May the ancestors continue to best you." This past Fall Felisha made her debut at Lifeline Theatre in "Rabbits in Their Pockets". A Joseph Jefferson Award winning actress earning her Bachelor's Degree from Edgewood College in Madison, Wisconsin she has performed in Illinois, Wisconsin and Ohio. Felisha has performed at Pegasus Theatre, Raven Theatre, DavJasFran Entertainment, eta Creative Arts Foundation, M'PACCT, Chicago Dramatist, The Black Ensemble Theatre, Hidden Stages, and Chicago State University. She has performed for summer theatre audiences as well as in dinner theatres. Felisha retired from the public sector in February 2014 after 30 years of service. She is the mother of a bright and beautiful daughter, and the grandmother of a handsome, humble, athletic teenager. When asked what has kept her dream alive after performing for over 45 years, she replies, "What happens to a dream deferred? Does it dry up like a raisin in the sun or does it explode? I chose that my dream explodes." Ashe
